Miss Belle Knowles, living northwest of this city, committed suicide Monday evening, by taking arsenic. The funeral occurred Wednesday at 10 a. m., and the remains were interred in the Belle Plaine cemetery. Disappointment in love is assumed to be the cause of the fatal act.
Mr. Sheppard was in our midst Saturday with his telescope. Many of our citizens viewed the moon and Jupiter. The telescope is a good one, showing the mountains with a volcanic crater. It also shows three of Jupiter's moons. Every school boy and girl should take these views.

The amount of clothing completely ruined with pitch last Sunday night a week is enormous. However, the lads have been detected. The gang consists of about five individuals, two of whom spread the tar. The boys will have a chance to pay all damages without process of law. But if they fail to comply, the costs of trial and imposing of a fine will be added.
The teachers of this vicinity would like to ask Bro. McLaughlin who will provide for their families while they are attending county associations at Wellington and spending their hard earned dollars running back and forth. The association is a very nice thing for the teachers of Wellington and vicinity, but for teachers living in the more remote parts of the county, it's just a trifle more than we expected to be called upon to fulfill when we labored manfully for your re-election last fall. We hold you in the highest of esteem as our superintendant, but we deem that association call unjust.
Corbin.
